

Cruz del Sur

2 CENTAURO
POPA
QUILLA
VELA

This image is a detailed section of a historical celestial globe, likely from the 17th or 18th century. It shows the constellation Cancer, which is depicted as a man (Cancer) holding a scorpion (Scorpio) in his right hand. The globe is marked with stars and includes labels for various celestial features and constellations. The labels visible in the image include:

- Constellations: Cancer (the man), Scorpio (the scorpion), and parts of other constellations like Leo and Taurus.
- Stars: Numerous stars are plotted on the globe, many with labels in Latin or Greek.
- Other Labels: "Cancer", "Scorpio", "Leo", "Taurus", "Cancer", "Scorpio", "Leo", "Taurus", "Cancer", "Scorpio", "Leo", "Taurus".